Microsoft

As a benefit to Providence Health & Services employees, you are eligible to purchase Microsoft® Office Enterprise Edition 2010 Home Use Program media for just $21.95. This benefit is part of Providence's licensing agreement with Microsoft and enables you to purchase and install a full-version copy of Microsoft Office software on your home computer for a minimal price. This offering provides you with a temporary license for use during the term of your employment.

Providence is offering this discounted rate on Microsoft products as a benefit for your personal use. If you are a licensed user of a qualifying Microsoft Office application, you may order a single copy of the corresponding Home Use Program media to install and use on a home computer.

Please note that some product and language versions may not be available at the time you place an order. For up-to-date information on the availability of Home Use Program software, please visit <http://microsoft.com/licensing>

Get Microsoft Office 2010 software for an incredibly low price Purchasing Office Enterprise Edition 2010 for $21.95 through the Microsoft Home Use Program will save you as much as $400 off the estimated retail price.

It's easy to buy All software purchases are made through the Microsoft Home Use Program Web site. Ordering and shipping are both handled through this one easy-to-use site.

Use Office at home for personal projects Using the latest Microsoft Office software at home gives you and your entire family the opportunity to explore software features that you might not otherwise have time to consider. Plus, the expertise gained at home is expertise you can bring to work, boosting your productivity on the job.
